LANGUAGE THAT NEEDS A REST. An Entertaining Conversation Heard in Library. Wathington Post.

I was wakened in the middle of the night by a disturbance in the library. It did not seem to be the noise of burglars. It was more like the murmuring sound of many tongues engaged in spirited debate. I listened closely and concluded it must be some sort of a discussion being held by words in the big unabridged distingers. Creening softly to the door.

Then the discussion was resumed.
"I do a great deal of needless work," said the word But. "People say they have no doubt, 'but that' it will rain, and that they shouldn't wonder 'but what' it would anow, until I don't know 'but' I shall strike."

There was a fluttering sound and a clamor of voices.

"We, too,ought to be granted divorce," was the substance of what they said, and among the voices I recognized those of the following named couples: Cover Over, Enter In, From Thence, Go Fetch, Have Got, Latter End, Continue On, Converse Together, New Beginner, Return Back, Rise Up, Sink Down, They Both, Try And, More Perfect, Seldom Ever, Almost Never, Feel Badly, United Allogether, Two First, An One, Over Again, Repeat Again, and many others, When quietude had been restored, the word Rest said: "You words all talk of being overworked, as if that were EFFIGACIOUS, talk of being overworked, as if that were

If you could see your own scalp through an ordinary magnifying glass, you would be amazed at the amount of dust, dandruff, and dead skin thereon accumulated. The best and most popular preparation for cleansing the scalp is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

HE PROVED AN ALIBL How the Testimony of a Young Lady Helped Her Lover.

A farmer had some wheat stolen a few nights since, says the Preston, Minn., Times, and he was so sure that he knew who the thief was that he came into town and secured a warrant for a certain young man living near him. When the case came up for trial the defendant said case came up for trial the defendant said he could prove an alibi. In order to do this he had brought in "his gir!"—a buxom lass of 22. She took the staud and awore that he sat up with her from 7 in the evening until broad daylight next morning. "People cau be very easily mistaken," observed the plaintiff's lawyer. "I don't care—I know he was there," she replied.

"I gave 'em the wink about 10."
"Sure he was there at midnight, are you?"
"Yes, sir."
"Why are you sure?"
She blushed, looked over to her lover and laughed, and, getting a nod to go shead, she said:
"Well, sir. just as the clock struck 12 the old man jumped out of bed upstairs and hollered down, 'Sarah, yer ma wants some o' that catnip tea,' and we gotsuch a start we broke the back of the rocking chair and went over backward kerplunk!"

it must be some sort of a discussion being held by words in the big unabridged dictionary. Creeping softly to the door, I stood and listened. "I don't care," said the little word Of, "I may not be very big, but that is no reason why everybody should take advantage of me. I am the most mercilessly overworked word in the whole dictionary and there is no earthly reason for it, either. People say they 'consider of' and 'approve of' and 'accept of' and 'admit of all sorts of things. They say 'all of us,' and 'both of them,' and 'first of all,' and tell about 'looking out of' the window, or cutting a piece of bread 'off off the loaf, until I am utterly fired out."

"Pshaw!" said the word Up, "I am not much bigger than you and I dotwice as much work, and a good deal of it needlessly, too. People 'wake up' in the morning and 'get up' and 'shake up' their beds and 'dreas up' and 'wash up' and 'driw up' to the table, and 'eat up' and 'driw 'up' to the table, and 'eat up' and 'driw 'up' to the table, and 'draw up' to the corner, where the street-car driver 'pulls up' his horses and the passengers 'ascend up' the steps and 'go up' into the front scats and the conductor 'takes up' their day's work. From that time until they 'put up' their books and 'shuk up' their day's work. From that time until they 'put up' their books and 'shuk up' their day's work. From that time until they 'put up' their books and 'shuk up' their offices I do more work than any two words in this book; and even after business hours I am worked until people. their offices I do more work than any was two words in this book; and even after business hours I am worked until people lock up their houses and 'go up' to bed and 'cover themselves up' and 'shut up' their eyes for the night. It would take a week to tell what I have to 'put up' with in a day, and I am a good deal 'worked up' over it."

"I agree that both Up and Of are overworked," said the word Stated, "but I think I myself deserve a little sympathy. I am doing not only my own legitimate work, but also that which ought to be done by my friend Said. Nobody 'says' anything now a days; he always 'states' it.

"Yes," chipped in the fauny little word Pun, "these are very 'stately' times."
